FINAL DRAFT OF QUOTAS FROM NORTHERN COUNTIES LEAVE FOR CAMP LEWIS

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 5.—Five hundred and twenty-nine Californians, the final draft quota of districts representing 16 counties, entrained for American Lake today. It was the fourth day of the final entrainment period, which began Friday. Most of the men who started for Berlin via Camp Lewis and France today were from counties north of San Francisco.

James Murphy was sentenced to six months on one of three charges of petty larceny against him. "I'll off this country for keeps," expostulated James. "When I get out I'm going over and fight for Germany. Judge Sullivan looked over the complaint. "In that case," he finally announced, "I guess we'd better keep you in a while. I'll give you six months on each of these other two charges. Maybe Germany won't look so good a year and a half from now."

SACRAMENTO, Nov. 5.—Shark steak is the latest substitute food conservation has added to the menu in California, and ere long steaks from man eaters will be running in close competition to whale steaks for popularity on the meal ticket. Edwin O. Starks, professor of the University of California, is responsible for the suggestion that sharks be used for human consumption. He makes the suggestion in the California fish and game bulletin just given out here. Starks says that in the European markets, especially in France, fishes of this group command as high prices as do other coarse fishes. "I've eaten several species, and though they can not compare very well with many of our fishes and excel some of the coarser ones that we use in abundance," Starks says. "By causing a market demand for these fish we should not only introduce a cheap fish food, but by reducing their number we would save many better fishes as well as clams, oysters and the like, of which sharks eat great quantities, destroying thousands of dollars' worth of food each year."

What is meant by the term "substantially colored," as used in the new fruit standardization act with reference to the shipment of oranges? That is the question puzzling State Horticultural Commissioner G. H. Heake and the citrus growers of California. No one has been able to give a satisfactory explanation, so Heake has detailed George P. Weldon, deputy commissioner, to meet with the growers of the Sacramento and San Joaquin valleys to reach an understanding.

Charles F. Curry, Jr., son of Congressman Charles F. Curry, of this district, will be among the boys who will leave Sacramento November 4 for Camp Lewis to make up the city's final draft quota. Curry is just 21 years old and is the only son of the Congressman.

MR. JONES EXPLAINS

To the Glendale Evening News:

I desire space in your columns to explain why the office of the local board of exemption of District No. 7 has not been removed from San Fernando to Glendale. On October 25 a majority of the board, at a regularly held meeting at San Fernando, voted to remove the office to Glendale, effective on or after November 1. When the board was sitting at 1010 West Broadway, Glendale, last Thursday, Mr. Wilson, chairman of the board, reported to the board that he had received a letter from Adjutant General Borree of California, requesting that the office remain at San Fernando until the board heard from him again. By reason of such request, the board thought it was its duty to comply therewith. When further explanation comes from Adjutant General Borree I shall acquaint the people of this end of the district. Until then I suggest that all communications concerning the work of the board be sent to the office of the board at San Fernando.

MATTISON B. JONES,
Secretary.

LUNCHEON AND RECEPTION FOR MRS. LOVELACE

On Saturday at 12 o'clock Mrs. W. L. Andrews, of 1552 Pioneer Drive, gave a lovely little luncheon in honor of Mrs. H. W. Lovelace, of 1558 Pioneer Drive, who is leaving for the East, followed later in the afternoon by an informal reception. The guests at the luncheon were Mrs. Vernon H. Cowsert, Mrs. J. W. Andrea, Mrs. W. M. Nichols and Mrs. J. Sheppard. The house was beautifully decorated with chrysanthemums and the dining table was in green and white, smilax being effectively used about a great punch bowl of grape juice.

FLAG IS ASSURED

MISS GRACIA MOSIER PRESENTS NATIONAL BANNER TO GLENDALE

Mr. D. R. Jackson, of 1008 Chestnut street, started something last week when he sent a check for $5 to the Evening News office for purchasing a suitable flag to be displayed at Brand and Broadway. Dr. Harrower some time ago had received promises of contributions to a fund for purchasing a flag and pole. Now comes Miss Gracia Mosier, of 1322 North Louise street, with a beautiful flag eight by twelve feet, which she presents to the city to be properly displayed in accordance with flag etiquette. Further contributions to cover the expense of a pole will be received at the Evening News office, duly acknowledged and turned over to Dr. Harrower.

It is hoped the City Trustees will arrange to have the flag raised and lowered morning and evening and otherwise properly cared for.

It has been suggested that the Stars and Stripes be displayed more generally in the stores and homes of Glendale. It is a little thing to do, but it means much. Glendale is intensely patriotic at heart, but, as Mr. Jackson says, it is not apparent to the stranger. Let us show that we are not ashamed of the colors under which and for which our boys are fighting and enduring the hardships of the trenches.

A CORNER FOR CONSERVATION

The Editor is in receipt of the following letter: Mr. Editor—When we women were first asked to promise to save, it struck me in a tender spot. I said, "How did I ever live, raise a family and pay for property, if I hadn't saved? Besides keeping out of debt through strikes." Yet, I am glad to answer, even if I cannot do much more. We are not barefoot or eating acorns as the soldiers did when they fought that we might have a government.

Now could you give us a little corner in your paper, that we might exchange ideas and recipes as we learn in striving to conserve our supplies? The last thing I have learned in this way is this: a large, over ripe watermelon will yield a little over one half pint of very good molasses. The pulp is boiled in its own juice, strained by letting it drip over night and then boiled till it is evaporated to the proper consistency. Anyone who can make jelly will find it easy.

MRS. I. W. FAIRCHILD,
433 South Maryland.

If there are other Glendale ladies who feel that they would like to help the cause of food conservation in this way they are welcome to our corner.

The music will be furnished by Snebly's orchestra, and Mrs. Pearl F. Keller, of the Keller School of Dramatic Art and Dancing will give two dances.

AT THE CHRISTIAN CHURCH

Yesterday was a big day. The house was filled at all services and a splendid interest was manifested. This church is being put on the map in Glendale and the citizens should take an interest in supporting its meetings this week. Special services are to be held every night, which, from the topics announced in Saturday's News, will prove of unusual interest. The subject for tonight will be "Religion in Your Wife's Name." Mrs. J. D. Cole, one of our city's choicest singers, will have charge of the music.

WEATHER FORECAST—Fair tonight and Tuesday. Westerly winds.

AMERICANS KILLED IN FRANCE

GERMANS CUT OFF SALIENT KILLING THREE SAMMIES, WOUNDING FIVE AND CAPTURING TWELVE

(Special Service to Glendale Evening News)

WASHINGTON, November 5.—Three American infantrymen are dead, five are wounded and twelve are captured or missing as a result of a sharp attack by the Germans on a salient of the front line, French trenches held by Pershing's men, on November 3. One wounded German was captured.

This brief report announced by the war department brought home to America today the first casualties in actual fighting between the Sammies and the Germans. The German attack was made before daybreak on Saturday under protection of a heavy barrage fire which cut the American salient off from the rest of the line. An ordinary trench salient will contain from 25 to 30 men so the little force of Sammies was practically wiped out. The wounded German captured indicates that the Americans put up a fight before being captured.

The dead are:

Private Thomas F. Enright (sister, Mrs. Mary Irwin) Pittsburg, Pa.

Private James B. Gresham (Mother Mrs. Alice Gresham) Evansville, Ind.

Private Merle D. Hay (Father D. Hay) Glidden, Iowa.

EXPLOSION AND FIRE IN PLANT OF ALUMINUM COMPANY THREATENS DESTRUCTION OF ENTIRE CITY

(Special Service to Glendale Evening News)

NEW KENSINGTON, Pa., November 5.—With the explosion of 180,000 lbs. of illuminating powder stored in the plant, the Aluminum Company of America is now in flames and its complete destruction is expected. The entire town was evacuated at noon and the loss of many homes is expected. There is no way to fight the fire as water causes the powder to "let go." The town has a population of 13,000. Already the casualties among the 3000 employes of the plant amount to 60. The police declare the explosion and fire are incendiary.

TROPICO TO THE FRONT

DR. JOSEPH MARPLE PLEASES AT COMMUNITY CONCERT SATURDAY NIGHT

(By Walt Le Noir Church.)

Again our friends from Tropico largely increased the community of singers at the high school Saturday night. And they had the best of reasons, outside their love of chorus singing. Dr. Joseph Marple, their distinguished and gifted tenor, delighted us all with three songs, "Consider, and Hear Me," by Willard; "Just a Little Bit of Heaven" and "Mother Machree." The first is deeply devotional, well suited to soothe the soul buffeted by a sea of troubles. The other two are the kind of Irish folk songs which ever win new lovers for that beautiful isle of the sea. When our conductor, Spencer Robinson, resigned the leadership of the Methodist choir in Los Angeles several years ago, that important position was taken by Dr. Joe Marple, "the finest tenor in Los Angeles," as Mr. Robinson named him in the News last Saturday.

The enthusiastic audience tried hard to get Dr. Marple to respond to a third encore, but he graciously refused. Then they insisted that Spencer Robinson should sing a solo. He, too, denied them, saying he was hoarse from singing the community songs. "But," added he, "just wait till next Saturday night. Then all you Tropico people come back and bring your friends to hear me sing a solo, and just put it all over your champion, Joe Marple."

This caused great merriment, while Tropico and Marple promised to be on hand to see and hear the fun next time.

The big crowd had another genuine old-time singing fest—largely of the songs that never grow old, the heart songs of home and country, of which we never tire. The leader announced that one of the chorus singers, little Helen Gansert, had been promoted to sing a solo, which she did very sweetly, and was roundly applauded, though the song selected was a bit difficult for her young voice.

The leader introduced Mr. Robert Fisher of Phoenix, Ariz., a friend of the well known Glendale lawyer, Mr. Oliver Clark. Mr. Fisher's eloquent talk brought down the house more than once. He said he was going around the country, speaking in public and private, in favor of better food conditions to be brought about by closer co-operation between the government and the people. He said the worst "slackers" 'are those big dealers who add to the difficulties of the common people as well as of the small dealers by the needless high prices put on necessities, thus decreasing the donations to the Red Cross and other associations working for the victory that is almost necessary to our existence. But be that as it may, he urged every one who can to send a Yuletide box to some soldier at the front. The community singers are fortunate indeed to have one of the finest accompanists in the state, Miss Gertrude Champlain, the popular Glendale teacher of piano music.

Come out next Saturday night and witness the result of the great singing duello between Spencer Robinson of Glendale and Dr. Joe Marple of Tropico. It will be some vocal stunt.

ANNUAL AFFAIR PLANNED

The ladies of the Christian church are busy making final plans for their bazar which is to be held in the church bungalow on Wednesday, November 21. These annual affairs are very pleasant, as well as successful from a financial standpoint. The ladies of this church are famous for their culinary ability and their cafeteria dinners at noon and in the evening will be largely patronized. There will be displayed for sale all kinds of fancy articles, including rag rugs and home made comforts and quilts.

KITCHEN SHOWER

Miss Susan P. Taggert of Hawthorne street, entertained at her home last Saturday evening in honor of Miss Addie Midcalf, a bride-elect. Nursery rhyme charades was the game of the evening, the last one being, "To market, to market, to buy a fat pig; home again, home again, jiggity, jig. To market, to market, to buy a fat hog; home again, home again, jigity jog," and then the market basket filled to overflowing with various kitchen utensils was presented to Miss Midcalf. Delightful refreshments were served by the hostess to these guests: Mrs. Mary Baxter, Miss Alice Lyons and the Misses Zella Keim, Sara Hommer, Margaret Smith, Olive Pixley, Tomlin, Midcalf, Lorbeer, Stauffer, Crandell, Rosa Peck and Eva Daniels.

ELKS RAISING MILLION FOR A BASE HOSPITAL

Each of the 500,000 Elks of the country is giving $2 toward a $1,000,000 fund for base hospitals back of the American lines in France. A special commission of the lodge has authorized the assessment.

A $60,000 appropriation has been made by the Elks' war relief commission to purchase equipment for the Red Cross base hospital, which is being organized in connection with the University of Virginia.

Each base hospital has a staff of at least 26 physicians, two dentists and 65 Red Cross nurses. A number of Red Cross base hospitals have been organized, which have not as yet raised sufficient funds for the purchase of necessary equipment. Among these are the base hospitals at San Francisco, Portland, Richmond, Atlanta, Baltimore, Charlottesville, Lexington and Brooklyn. This equipment costs $60,000.

The movement to raise $1,000,000 was decided upon by the Elks following a meeting of the Grand Lodge at Boston in July, when a commission was appointed to decide upon some patriotic war service. The administration of this fund, which is now being raised, has been delegated to the Elks' war relief commission, which decided upon the plan of co-operation with the Red Cross.

PHILANTHROPIC SECTION

The regular meeting of the Philanthropic Section of the Tuesday Afternoon Club will be held Wednesday, November 7, at 2 o'clock, at the home of Mrs. E. R. Naudain, 910 Lomita avenue. Mrs. Llewellyn Andrews will be the assistant hostess.

The next regular meeting of the club, Tuesday, November 13, is the day this section has asked the members of the club to bring contributions of canned fruits and jellies for the different associations in which the club is interested, the children's hospital, the King's Daughters' day nursery, maternity cottage and the Coleman House Association. Members of the section will exchange empty jars and jelly glasses for the jars of fruit and jelly contributed. No doubt the members will all give liberally from their abundant stores to these worthy ones.

Dr. and Mrs. Dougherty of Santa Ana, formerly of Central avenue, were Sunday visitors to Glendale, dividing their time between several of their old friends and neighbors. They visited Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Thompson, 1314 West Fifth street; Dr. and Mrs. I. H. Durfee, of 508 South Brand boulevard, and Mrs. C. Hutton, of 900 West Colorado street.

SELF-DENIAL NECESSARY IF AMERICA IS TO WIN

The men who don the uniform of the American soldier and sailor are offering their all—their lives if necessary—to their country; wherefore those who stay at home should be willing to contribute liberally, even if it means self-denial, to make the lives of the men at the training camps more wholesome, more enjoyable, more home-like. This is the message which has been sent to the Washington headquarters of the national committee on War Camp Community Recreation Fund by Charles W. Dawson, of Muskogee, Okla., governor of the eleventh district, International Association of Rotary Clubs.

Mr. Dawson who has studied the situation at a number of army camps, in his report to the committee which is raising "three dollars for each soldier and sailor" to provide the best sort of entertainment for them in the communities around the camps, says in part:

"For the first time in history a definite and sustained effort is to be made to treat the soldier as a human being rather than as a part of a machine. It is the shame of every nation—and ours no less than the older countries—that heretofore the common soldier has had no amusement open to him except the saloon, the gambling house and the cheap dance hall. He had no welcome at the front door of any wholesome home.

"We of the United States have not yet learned to give. We have been congratulating ourselves that the induction of this nation into the war has caused hardly a ripple in American finance. Not until our casualty list begins to show that our men are actually fighting this nation's battles at the front will we wake up to the fact that there is need of real sacrifice on the part of every citizen.

"I have been told by Canadian friends, of men whom they know who have mortgaged their homes or sold them outright and given the money to the Benevolent Fund: I have been told of many others who set asidde each month only enough to cover their barest necessities and give every other cent they can make to this fund. We of the United States will learn to give just as freely when we once appreciate what war really means."

EAT FISH COOKED WITHOUT FAT

Don't fry your fish—broil, boil, bake them, or make chowder. Not only is it patriotic to eat fish, and thus save meat for the nation, but also it is patriotic to refrain from frying fish, in order to conserve fats and oils. Such is the declaration of the Committee on Resurces and Food Supply of the California State Council of Defense.

The fish most easily digested are the white fish or the fish of fine fiber or small flakes—such is the report which has come to the committee from Dr. Meyer E. Jaffa, Profressor of Nutrition in the University of California. All fish are somewhat more digestible if not fried, but instead cooked by broiling, baking or boiling—besides which any French chef will testify that a broiled fish is aesthetically far superior to a fried fish.

Every fish has its own distinctive flavor, Professor Jaffa points out, and if each is cooked in a manner which will preserve and enhance this flavor, great variety may be given to the weekly menu. It is good food conservation to buy fish to save meat, but it is poor food conservation then to use up a quantity of fat or oil in frying, when a baked fish may be flavored with a much smaller amount of oil or oleomargarine than would be required for frying purposes.

The skilled housewife can practice two kinds of conservation at once by not only cooking her fish without fat, but by serving it with a sauce flavored with tomatoes, bellpeppers, pickles, capers, or other savory substances, thus using California's abundant vegetables instead of fats.

FIND HOUSEWORK MORE LUCRATIVE

That during the present high cost of living, mothers with dependent children will find housework the most lucrative employment and that many day nurseries in California, because of increased price in foods, are finding it difficult to exist, is the text of a report made to the California State Council of Defense by Dr. John R. Haynes, a member of the Council and chairman of the State Board of Charities and Corrections.

The report states that about 40 per cent of the mothers who put their children in day nurseries while at work, are engaged in doing household work at 25 cents an hour with their carfare and meals included. The majority of these workers, it is stated, find regular employment at this work.

The report also states that many families with small children, which heretofore found it hard to exist, despite the fact that both mother and father were working, now enjoy much greater prosperity and that the children are getting the benefit of this prosperity through the medium of better food and clothing. It is also stated that many more married women have entered the wage earning group as a result of the higher wages paid during war time.

CHILD LABOR LAWS IN EFFECT

Violations of the child labor law in California have not increased since the beginning of the war, according to the report just made to the California State Council of Defense by the State Board of Charities and Corrections. The investigation of child labor conditions was made at the instigation of Dr. John R. Haynes, Chairman of the State Board of Charities and Corrections and a member of the State Council of Defense. Violations of the child labor law in California have always been very, very few, says the report. Shortly after war was declared and when suspension of the operation of all child labor laws was agitated, many inquiries were made by employers as to whether the child labor laws in this state would be suspended. They were immediately notified that the laws would continue in operation.

Distributers of manufacturers products throughout the country have been a big factor in the protection of children from child labor law violators, says the report. Many of these distributers have notified manufacturers that they would not accept any goods for sale which had been made by children employed in violation of the child labor laws and that they would not stand upon technicalities in the interpretation of these laws.

FOOD FOR AMERICAN PRISONERS

The war council of the American Red Cross has appropriated $31,212 to buy 75 tons of food for American prisoners in Germany. The food is to be forwarded to the Red Cross warehouse at Berne, Switzerland, pending its need by American prisoners. At present the number of American prisoners in German prison camp consists only of about 100 seamen. Twenty-five ton of food for their relief, enough to sustain this number of men for three month, have been sent to Berne up to this time, and this authorized order for 75 tons will insure their sustenance for an additional nine months, or will suffice for a larger number for a shorter period.

Soldiers and sailors captured by the Central powers are not provided by their captors with sufficient food to keep them in good health, nor with sufficient clothing, so these necessities must be provided from home, and in view of this condition the American Red Cross and the United States government are preparing to feed all American soldiers and sailors who may be taken prisoner by Germany during the war. A complete scheme for sustaining prisoners is now being worked out by the war and navy departments and the American Red Cross, which will be the agency through which the American prisoners will be reached.

Under the proposed plan of feeding American prisoners in Germany, each prisoner is to receive, in the course of every two weeks, three 10-pound packages containing proper and sufficient rations to keep him in good health for that length of time. It is expected that sufficient food to sustain a considerable number of men for several months will have been accumulated in Berne before the American troops begin active service on the fighting front.

Already the Navy Department has shipped 100 outfits of clothing for the interned seamen in Germany, and the quartermaster general's department 85 cases of clothing for soldiers and interned civilians. Foodstuffs so far provided have been purchased by the American Red Cross, but the furnishing of necessary rations is to be attended to by the government as soon as detailed plans for prisoner relief work are perfected.

Under existing arrangements with the German government, food and clothing for American prisoners are sent in bulk to a neutral country and there repacked by agents of the American Red Cross in standard containers. In charge of this work at Berne is Ellis L. Dresel, who, before the war, was attached to the American embassy at Berlin. He is now a member of the staff of the American legation at Berne, and his experience has well qualified him for the superintending of prisoner relief work for the American Red Cross.

PLANT YOUR ONIONS

"The time is at hand for planting onions," says the University of California to the backyard farmer. Onions are selling now at five cents a pound, and they seem likely to go higher. The home gardner can help his family budget as well as the food conservation cause if he will now cover some vacant space in his yard with several inches of well-rotted manure, and after the first good soaking rain spade up the ground, work the soil fine with a rake, and sow his onions in rows twelve inches apart, with the seed about an inch deep, sowing fairly thick, and thinning out when the plants are four or five inches high, then leaving the onions, five inches apart in the rows. Some neighbor may be glad to get the discarded plants, for transplanting in his own garden.

The students' garden class at the University of California this semester has half again as many members as it ever had before. It is growing not only onions but carrots, beets, cabbages, lettuce, kohl rabi, turnips, and winter radishes. The crop will be used for the benefit of the Red Cross.

To aid the home garden movement the University of California College of Agriculture will gladly send a member of its staff to lecture in any community which wants to interest its people, young and old, in home gardening. This lecture, illustrated with many stereopticon slides, on "The Educational and Economic Value of School and Home Garden Work," will be given by O. J. Kern, Assistant Professor of Agricultural Education in the University of California.

CENTER OF POPULATION

For more than a century a careful calculation has been made every ten years to fix the exact center of population. When the census was taken in 1790 the center of population was found to be near Annapolis, Md., well east of Chesapeake bay. A decade later the center had moved to a point just above the city of Washington. Throughout the history of the country the population center has moved steadily westward at the rate of about 100 miles every ten years. The center of population of our 100,000,000 lies in Illinois near its western boundary. In another decade it will probably cross the Mississippi river.—Christian Herald.

WHAT FARMERS GOT FOR WHEAT

Farmers received an average of about $1.44 for their 1916 wheat crop, which compares with 98 cents for their 1915 crop, 99 cents for their 1914 crop and 79 cents for their 1913 crop. During the past year the price advanced steadily from 93 cents a bushel on July 1, 1916, to $2.48 on July 1, 1917. Sales were heaviest during August and lightest in June. Total sales during the year are estimated at about 615,000,000 bushels, as compared with about 850,000,000 in the preceding year.

RED CROSS FOOD SALE BRINGS GOOD RETURNS

The Red Cross headquarters is a busy center at all times, but all day Saturday the scene was livelier and brisker than usual, the occasion being the cooked food sale and lunch advertised for that day. The four ladies who had charge of the sale were on hand betimes, and had the room attractively arranged and gay with flowers. Eager buyers were also in waiting at the appointed hour and ready to take the goodies "sight unseen" when they began to arrive. Cakes and pies were most in demand, and dozens more than were furnished could have been sold, but the crowd came to buy, and when there were no more cakes and pies, a jar of fruit or jelly, a dish of salad, a bouquet of flowers or a bag of lemons was taken. At lunch time it fairly surged. Coffee and sandwiches were handed out at a lively rate, and baked beans, doughnuts, baked apples, macaroni and other delicacies were called for faster than the four pairs of hands could serve them, so others were pressed into service. One little woman whose name was not learned quietly slipped into line and worked until the rush was over. Mr. and Mrs. Beamon were "among those present" and lent valuable assistance. So was Mr. Ezra Parker, who might be termed the fairy godfather of the Glendale Red Cross chapter, so timely and numerous have been his benefits. In fact, patronage and proffers of assistance came hand in hand, and from most unexpected sources. It was good to see, for it bespoke good will and a desire to help along a good work. The results were most satisfactory, and it is probable that the Saturday food sale and lunch will be a permanent event. Announcements will be made later. The ladies in charge were Mesdames Boettner, Bachmann, Otis and Morgan.

ETHAN ALLEN SNIVELY

Illinois newspapers give generous space in eulogistic obituary notice of the passing of Ethan Allen Snively, aged 72, at Springfield, Ill., his residence for many years. Mr. Snively was in journalism-contemporary with the late Robert J. Burdette, and at the same place, Peoria, Ill. He gained great notoriety as reporter for the Peoria Democrat during the 27th general assembly, and was largely responsible for the movement that came so near moving the capital from Springfield to Peoria. He was a favorite with newspaper men regardless of party and nearly all the time an official or manager in the "State Press Association" counsels. He was much in evidence during the Chicago World's Fair and finally landed in the clerk's office to the Supreme Court at Springfield. He was a good official anywhere, well calculated to serve the public efficiently and affably, hence those qualities that made him popular and easy to elect to any office he desired. He was cousin to Clarence E. Snively Sr., of the Canton (Ill.) Register, and thus related to C. E. Snively Jr., late Chief of Police of Los Angeles. It is doubtful if there is a man in the state today, with a more extensive acquaintance than had the late Supreme Court clerk. S. P.

HIGH SCHOOL FOOTBALL

(Contributed)

Glendale Union high school is at last on the map. At least, that is what the football fans think. For years the boys have worked and plotted and tried to persuade the trustees to allow football in the high school. At last their efforts have been rewarded and their first big game came Saturday with Monrovia. Score, 6 to 0 in favor of the visiting team.

On Friday there was a rally in the auditorium for the purpose of arousing the somewhat dormant enthusiasm of some of our worthy students. It was a big success, and they turned out en masse for the game. The high school band was there, and the boys deserve a great deal of credit for the "peppy" music that inspired the gridiron field as much as the rooting by the crowd that almost filled the grand stand.

The game started at 2:30, and there was not a dull moment from start to finish. Our boys were matched against a team that was far heavier, one that had had four weeks' more practice and that had already played six games this season, and yet we held them down to one touchdown, besides giving the spectators a game that for clean sportsmanship and excitement could hardly be beat. To Mr. Hayhurst belongs the credit for turning out such a splendid team to represent us. The boys all did more than well, but the spectacular playing of Don Wieman and Russel Lummel deserves honorable mention. The lineup was as follows:

Center—W. Meeker.
Right guard—Wilde.
Right tackle—A. McPherson.
Right end—Powers.
Quarterback—Lummel.
Fullback—D. Wieman.
Substitutes—Thomson and Perrin.

After the game the girls of the Girls' League did their bit and held open house in the school cafeteria. They served punch and wafers to the begrimed heroes of both sides. Afterwards the motley throng were let in to demolish what was left.

The seniors extended the glad hand to the Monrovia boys and invited them to their Halloween hop in the Masonic Hall Saturday night. A few of them took advantage of it and were given the time of their lives at the first school dance of the season. There were about fifty couples there to trip the light fantastic to music by the Howdy Band. The decorations were typical of Halloween. Cornstalks stacked in the corners and black cats and witches were much in evidence. Every one had a glorious time and the seniors are jubilant over a goodly sum to add to their treasury.

HALLOWEEN PARTY

On Friday evening, at the home of Miss Esther Black, 1450 Kenneth road, a very merry Halloween party was given by the consultation period class of Miss Soper, the history teacher at the Glendale Union high school. There were 17 girls present, all coming in costume, and the spooky idea of Halloween was carried out from the first mysterious entrance of each guest, who was led in ghostly silence through dark passages before being finally conducted to a dimly lighted room, where witches, goblins and other ghostly visitants hovered about the scene. Games appropriate to the season were played, and a prize was given for the cleverest costume, Constance Dousler being the witch who won the first honors. Refreshments of apples, nuts, candy and popcorn were much enjoyed, and the girls left at a late hour, not only with the memories of a pleasant evening, but with their fortunes satisfactorily foretold for the future.

A Special Meeting for Men

"IF YOU MISS IT, YOU MISS IT"

—The Meetings will last through the week. All folks are welcome. You'll enjoy the music under the direction of Mrs. J. D. Cole.

MEETING TONIGHT BEGINS AT 7:45

LET US REMEMBER

That the men of the allied nations are fighting. They are not on the farms. The production of food by the countries that are fighting with us in the war has, therefore, been greatly reduced. Even before the war it was much less than the amount consumed. The difference came from America and a few other countries. Now this difference is greater than ever, and at the same time but little food can be brought in from the outside except from America.

We must increase our normal export surplus of 88,000,000 bushels to 220,000,000 of wheat, and California must do her part. It can be done in but one way, by economizing and substituting.

The whole problem can be met if we will substitute one pound of corn or other cereal flour for one pound of wheat flour weekly a person.

Observe wheatless day on Wednesday and use substitutes on other days as far as possible.

STATE COUNCIL OF DEFENSE.

AN AMERICAN GIRL WEDS A FRENCH GENERAL

PARIS, Oct. 20 (by mail).—In a humble village of Lorraine now being resurrected among the devastations and ruins of war, a wedding has been celebrated which eloquently symbolizes the alliance between France and America. The bride was Miss Polck, the godmother of the village, Vitrimont. The bridegroom was a French general.

A few months ago, when Vitrimont was still a heap of ruins, the papers announced that a wealthy American woman had adopted the village and was to rebuild it at her own expense. It sounded to many like a good newspaper story, for it seemed rather a tall order for one person, even though she was an American.

But the "godmother of Vitrimont" has proved that she does not promise more than she can keep, for house by house, street by street, Vitrimont is rising from its ruins. And those who loved the old homesteads have the joy of seeing them resuscitated as nearly as possible like what they were before, with a few modern improvements here and there, so the villagers have been calling down blessings on their fairy godmother from over the sea.

And it seems to them only right and natural that one of their brave generals should have turned up, like Prince Charming, to offer his hand and heart to their benefactress and thereby turn her into a citizeness of France. And it was just like her to want to have the ceremony take place in Vitrimont, which was thereby given an occasion of giving vent to its gratitude for its rebirth.

And as a final touch to the memorable ceremony, General Petain himself motored over to offer his good wishes to his comrade in arms and "Madame le Generale."

CAMP KEARNEY SIGNS

Camp Kearney, at Linda Vista, California, is to be the first "officially sign posted" army cantonment in the United States. Following arrangements made by representatives with staff officers at Linda Vista, the Automobile Club of Southern California, through its route and map service department, is preparing not only to thoroughly mark all highways leading to the big camp, but also to place the official signs for the government within the confines of Kearney itself. This is one of the many ways the Automobile Club is doing its bit, and the full force of the organization's field crews will be put to work at once on the placing of the signs.

They will be of the regulation enameled metal, set on twelve-foot redwood posts. In front of the staff headquarters, at the main entrance to the cantonment, special signs will be placed indicating the location of various branches of the service. These will be for the guidance of motoring visitors, as well as for those on official business.

Because of the flat nature of the territory in which Camp Kearney has been built, it is practically impossible to see ahead for any great distance, and verbal direction signs along the way are almost incomprehensible.

Now, under the general supervision of the quartermaster's department, the Automobile Club will thoroughly sign post each of the roads which comprise the highway system of the camp itself. This system is as involved and as extensive as that of any smaller city. At this time the signs are being made in Los Angeles according to the notes prepared by club officials and Lieut. Dodge at Kearney in the field. In front of headquarters will be placed the big general direction signs, upon which will be placed the names of the various departments and the route to take to find them. Leading from these will be the signs giving more specific directions. Motorists endeavoring to visit the camp will be guided from both the San Diego coast and inland routes directly to their destination by the official club signs. From the coast route motorists will turn inland at a point just north of the top of the La Jolla grade. On the inland road the turn is made at a point designated by the club sign.

That the new signs will be ready for erection about November 10 was the statement issued yesterday from the Automobile Slub headquarters in Los Angeles. Immediately upon their completion, a club truck and crew will leave for Camp Kearney, where, under the personal direction of the quartermaster's department, they will be lifted into place.

When it is considered that the camp confines are measured in miles rather than in feet or rods, and that more than 17,000 men are already quartered there, and that paved streets form the avenues of travel, the importance of the sign posting project is realized.

In addition to the sign posting work, the Automobile Club will supply Camp Kearney with all the latest road information. This will be available at all times for the various departments of the Fortieth division of the army. Tihs road information will be gathered from each of the thirteen Southern California counties every week and incorporated in one complete weekly report, which will be sent at once to the chief of staff for reference purposes, following which it will be posted on the bulletin board for general consultation.

Although no official recognition in written form can be tendered the members of the Automobile Club of Southern California from the division stationed at Linda Vista, those officers who are in close touch there with what the club is doing have expressed verbalally their appreciation of the organization's efforts.

GROWTH OF GERMAN ARMY

WITH THE FRENCH ARMIES AFIELD, October 20 (by mail).—By an intensity of mobilization that has drained. Germany dry of every man capable of military service, the German fighting divisions on the French and Russian fronts have been practically doubled since August 1, 1914. Despite this gigantic effort, France, England and Russia, the three original allies, have in every way kept pace, with the result that at the present time, is constantly on the numerical superiority in fighting forces. In addition, it has been definitely established that the military of the allied armies, as constituted at the present tme, is constantly on the increase, while that of the German army is unmistakably on the decline.

Since the beginning of the war the new allies that have joined France, England and Russia have far exceeded in the reinforcements of troops which they have added to the allied cause those brought to Germany by the allies won over to her side. On August 1, 1914, when Germany had mobilzed to the extent she deemed necessary to win the war, she threw on to the French and Rusiasn fronts 123 fighting divisions constituted on a basis of four regiments to the division. By first crushing France with the bulk of these and then throwing them to the Russian front by means of her system of strategic railways, she counted on a quick and complete victory.

By November of 1914, when the battle of the Yser was being fought, Germany had found it necessary to increase her fighting divisions on the two fronts to 137. In September of 1915, toward the close of the Russian campaign, the German divisions on the two fronts had been increased to 170. By this time Germany began to feel the pressure on her for new divisions, and to permit of this she began the gradual transformation of her divisions to a basis of three regiments each intsead of four. The extra regiment thus saved went to constitute a new division.

Towards the middle of the attack on Verdun, about June, 1916, all of the German divisions had been reduced to the basis of three regiments only. By this change, and by a constant fine-combing of the entire empire for available men, Germany was able to augment her divisions on the eastern and western fighting fronts to 173.

The fall and wnter of 1916 witnessed Hindenburg's colossal effort at mobilization and the creation of new divisions. His plans included the incorporation of the inhabitants of Serbia, Poland and other conquered districts. As early as December of 1916 his efforts had permitted an increase in the fighting divisions of the two fronts to 208.

By July, 1917, at the end of the French and English spring offensive Hindenburg had attained 234 divisions. On September 1, at the time Germany undertook her counter offensives on the Russian front, a maximum of 239 fightng divisions had been thrown on to the two fronts by the Germans.

Against the 123 fighting divisions which Germany threw on the French and Russian fronts with the beginning of hostilities, she now has there 239 divisions. Owing to the fact that these latter are exclusively on a basis of three regiments to a division, instead of four as at the beginning, the figures are a trifle deceptive.

A more accurate idea can be had by reckoning in battalions, as battalions have approximately 1000 men, although it is definitely known that hundreds of the German battalions are now far below this number. On this basis, Germany started her campaign on the French and Russian fronts with 1512 battalions. This number has by now been increased to 2334. These fighting units of course do not take into accoant the millions of men employed in service behind the lines. This titanic increase is in no way discouraging to allied military authorities, because they happen to know that their own creation of new fighting units has in every way been equal. Other aspects of the situation are also most encouraging.

IMPORTANCE OF KNOWING HOW

At the recent conference of chemists in New York an eminent chemist said that capital is a secondary asset in the progress of the dye industry. The first essential is men who "know how." That is true not only of dye production, but of almost every line of manufacturing. Before we can operate textile mills successfully we must have men who know the business from beginning to end. Before we can have a boot and shoe industry or a paper industry, we must have the men who "know how." And it takes years and years to train men of that kind. A man can be trained for some particular part of the work in any one of these industries in a comparatively short time, but to develop men who have the ability and experience to build up an industry from the beginning and operate it successfully we must provide long periods of training.

The war has given up three years of absolute protection from the competition of German dyes, and yet it is acknowledged that we have been unable to produce dyes of the German standard. The reason is easily determined. Through a short-sighted policy of "buying where you can buy the cheapest" we left the tariff bars down so far as this industry is concerned, and we had no dye industry nor the men who could develop it quickly. We had capital in abundance, but we lacked the men who "know how." We shall not again permit such an unsound polity to prevent us from training men in every important industry. Whenever it is apparent that foreign competition is destructive of an American industry, we shall impose an import duty equal to at least the difference in cost of production here and abroad.—San Bernardino Sun.

QUADRICENTENNIAL IN WEST

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., Nov. 5.—World leaders of the Seventh Day Adventist denomination, who are holding a two weeks' council here, have definitely decided to hold their next quadrennial session of the general world conference of the church in the Civic Auditorium, San Francisco, March 29 to April 21, 1918. To this convention will come practically the entire clergy in North America, delegates from every state and province, Europe, Asia, Africa, South America, Australia and the islands of the sea. It promises to be the largest convention, both in the numbers of adherents of the church in attendance and the importance of business to be transacted, that has ever been held in the history of the denomination.

The holding of the convention in San Francisco was obtained through the efforts of the delegates that have come to this present convention from California. The delegates from the Pacific coast, where the Seventh Day Adventist denomination has the second strongest union conference in the world, both financially and numerically, include Rev. E. E. Andross, president of the Pacific Union Conference; Rev. A. O. Tait, editor of the Signs of the Times; C. H. Jones, president of the Pacific Press Publishing Association; H. H. Hall, G. H. Childs and James W. Cochran, vice president, treasurer and circulation manager respectively of the Pacific Press Publishing Association. The strongholds of the Adventist denomination in San Francisco, Oakland, Mountain View, San Jose, Los Angeles, San Diego, Fresno, Santa Ana and Lodi, where the church has tnousands of members, will rejoice over the general world conference going to the Golden State, and will begin to make preparations to attend.

The convention here will continue until November 10.

LA CRESCENTA.

The noted Campfire Girls of La Crescenta accepted the kind invitation of Mrs. Bissel to a "windup" bathing party at her home. This party was the completion of a series of such entertainments held this season by the girls. A dip in the plunge, games and a light luncheon served by the hostess was the program of the afternoon. Mr. and Mrs. Bissel and the "campfire guardian," Mrs. B. F. Millar, joined in the games and added to the fun. All returned home tired but happy. Look for more news of the "campfire."

The La Crescenta Woman's Club was entertained on the 24th of October by Mrs. Lewis Hamlin at her home on Prospect avenue. She was assisted by her daughter, Mrs. George B. Varnum, of Los Angeles. The entertainment was a raffle, in which Mrs. Bohon held the lucky number; also a word contest, Mrs. C. R. Shipman winning first prize and Mrs. Blanche H. Skeath the second. Refreshments were served, and all in all it was a very enjoyable time. Those present were: Mrs. Virginia B. Claflin, Mrs. E. W. Nettleton, Mrs. Alice Reynolds, Mrs. Cary Groton, Mrs. Blanche H. Skeath, Mrs. S. Seymour Thomas, Mrs. A. W. Brown, Mrs. W. F. Brown, Mrs. S. Everett Levy, Mrs. Mary L. Thomson, Mrs. Florence T. Haines, Mrs. Belle Ferne Miller, Mrs. C. R. Shipman, Mrs. Bohon, Mrs. Leon Bertrand, Mrs. Potter, Mrs. Frank M. Morgan and Mrs. George B. Varnum.

The Halloween party given to the school children by Mrs. H. L. Bessell was an unqualified success. The costumes were weird and wonderful. All had a good time, and if they didn't have it was their own fault. Games, guessing contests, donkey party, putting the eyes in a jack o' lantern, filled in th eevening. Candy, peanuts, cakes and ice cream filled in the crevices.

The knitting bee held every Monday at the home of Mrs. Seymour Thomas is a great success. The amount of work they are turning out is marvelous and of good quality, too.

The Red Cross meets every Tuesday and Thursday from 10:30 to 4:30 at the school house. Have you joined? Have you given a day or a donation to our boys? Already they have gone "over the top," and the wounded are being cared for by the work of your hands or the dollars out of your pocket. Maybe your boy will be one of those who will need some of these supplies.

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Burton have moved to Euclid Heights, Los Angeles.

The La Crescenta Women's Club invites all the women of La Crescenta to their next meeting, Wednesday, November 14, at 2 p. m., at the school house. The speakers for the afternoon are: Mrs. Myron Hunt, from the Navy League, and Mrs. Hazard, government food expert. Tea will be served by the hostess, Mrs. B. F. Miller.

TUJUNGA

The Woman's Club held a very enjoyable as well as profitable afternoon meeting October 25. After the business session Mrs. Sapp talked of her visit in Guatemala, a year ago, to the big banana plantations. Her description of the journey from the time she left New York up to her return was vividly given. Then followed a talk on the people, their religion and politics, the fruits, flowers and vegetables, the insect life, beautiful rivers and lakes. Every question asked was answered in a very simple but instructive manner, and all felt much better acquainted with Guatemala than ever before. Those who are in charge of the great coffee and banana plantations, as well as the cutting and shipping of the fine woods and rubber, predict for the little republic a glorious future. Those who did not hear Mrs. Sapp missed a wonderful treat. The next meeting of the club will be on Thursday, November 8, at 2 p. m., in Bolton Hall.

The Hetty Hartranft property was sold on Thursday, October 25, for $12,000 cash to an Eastern manufacturer. Also the home of Mr. Freeman, on the Verdugo hills, passed into the hands of an Eastern man.

C. E. Johnson and family of Los Angeles street are moving to Ocean Park, where they have purchased a grocery. They were among the pioneers of the valley and will be missed. Success go with them is the wish of their friends.

Mr. Johnson, of the Tujunga grocery store, has been on the sick list for a week past.

We regret to learn that John Steen has exchanged his beautiful bungalow on Manzanita drive for a rooming house at Long Beach. We hope Mr. Steen will not think of leaving the valley, but will build on other lots that he owns in the tract.

Miss Stella Wieman has received orders to report at Camp Lewis. We are sorry to lose her, but no doubt the boys of Monte Vista valley will welcome her with joy.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Wieman and family have moved to Los Angeles for the winter.

Dr. Whtie and daughter, Rebecca, have taken an apartment in Los Angeles for the winter.

Mr. and Mrs. Campbell, who have been sojourning in the valley for the last year, have moved to Los Angeles.

The Woman's Guild will meet with Mrs. Fortinier on Tuesday, November 6. Much work is to be finished and a full attendance is desired.

Mrs. W. H. Wieman has returned from a visit to her son, in Sacramento.

Mr. Walter Paul returned home from the East Tuesday morning. It took five days to get here from Iowa on account of the poor train service.

Word was received from Charles Thayer, formerly of Tujunga, that he will soon leave Los Angeles for Fresno.

LA CANADA

The regular meeting of the Red Cross was held Tuesday afternoon in the school building. The following officers were elected at the meeting: Chairman, Mrs. Selleck; vice chairman, Mrs. Howard Cooper; secretary and treasurer, Mrs. Murray; finance committee, Mrs. Penfield and Mrs. Pate. The following directors were also elected: Mrs. H. Cooper, Mrs. Howard, Mrs. Lester, Mrs. Murray, Mrs. Penfield, Mrs. Selleck and Mrs. Jewett. Any one in the valley who has little scraps of yarn, send or give it to Mrs. Seright. This yarn, regardless of the color, will be knit into stockings for the little children of France. Tuesday, November 6, will be Exchange Day at the Red Cross. This means home-made bread, pies, cake, etc., will be for sale by the ladies. Remember the date and stop and see if the ladies can not supply you with something good to eat. All in the valley interested in Red Cross work are urged to come to the regular meetings on Tuesdays.

Mr. Harry E. White, real estate man for La Canada valley and Flintridge Tract, certainly deserves a great deal of praise for the splendid work he has been doing the last few months in the valley. The many new homes going up in the Flintridge Tract proves that somebody has been a "hustler," and this is known to be one of Mr. White's characteristics. La Canada valley is growing at a tremendous rate, and this is mainly due to the combined efforts of White & Major, real estate dealers for La Canada and Flintridge Tract.

A Halloween party was given on Wednesday evening by the grammar school girls of the La Canada school. Outdoor games were enjoyed by all, and many unique Halloween stunts were given. Refreshments were eaten in the old school building. Ghosts and witches played an active part in all the evening stunts. Miss Housam and Miss Horn were the invited guests of the girls.

The Laidies' Aid of the La Canada Congregational church will hold an all day meeting Wednesday, November 7. Members and Friends are cordially invited.
